Environmental Reviews For HUD Assisted Projects

August 22-24, 2006
Phoenix, AZ

This training is sponsored by HUD's Office of Native American Programs. It will provide an introduction to the environmental review process as well as a comprehensive examination of and instruction in this process. It will provide guidance for those circumstances when an entity assumes Federal environmental responsibilities and also for those when HUD retains such responsibilities. Specific topics include: how to determine if a project is exempt, categorically excluded, or subject to NEPA; preparation of an environmental review; and, planning for and managing environmental reviews.

Who Should Attend: All those responsible for conducting, supervising, procuring, certifying and/or approving environmental compliance activities, documents, or services for environmental review.
